June Affairs, school is out! The 24 Bamfielders who attended the June Community Affairs meeting enjoyed a snappy review of the Agenda and streamlined presentation of the Minutes. Thank you, Admin. Notable items: (Stefan Ochman) The Community Forest is seeking $100 K for micro-mill to be located on Tanya Porter's lot (now owned by Bruce Pow) and could hire 2 employees to cut Community Forest logs. Thirty-seven boats, ranging from the neat Mike Elliston's, Johnny Johnson-built rowboat to the blocky Nova platform paraded behind the paddled Huu-ay-aht canoe from Bamfield to Grappler Inlets. Other craft included the Jennings operated Queen Mary, the McKay Lodge boat complete with a piper, the Fire Boat spraying a great arch of water, and along the route, bubbles were launched from the Baird's Lucky Lander. The Huu-ay-aht Traditional Speaker, Wish-Kii, opened the festivities with a song, and commented on the uniqueness of this July 1st Anacla/Bamfield celebration. A moment of silence followed, recognizing the First Nations children lost to Residential Schools. Stella Wenstob sang O' Canada from Eileen Scott's float, Tim Masso explained and sang the Healing Song he and Hjalmer Wenstob wrote. It was a happening West Coasters could be proud of: respectful, inclusive and fun. L. Druehl. Collage by Marc Phillips

"I never drank much coffee, but I appreciate the culture," said Dane Dentoom. Dane got the idea to roast coffee this January, was roasting by April and had roasted about 230 pounds of Columbian beans by mid June. He is Green: his labels, produced in New Zealand, are printed with soy-based ink on biodegradable backing. He gets a tree planted in the Andes with every order. A contest for roast names, on social media, received 80 responses. Of these 3 for each roast were chosen locally, with the winner being determined on social media. And the winners: Cape Beale Light, Sunday Surf medium light, Fog Lifter Medium (Dane's favourite), Wild Coast Medium Dark (my favourite), Powers Out Dark, 100 Fathoms French Roast, and Night Run Espresso Roast. My prediction is, this Bamfield original, "that started as a hobby", will soon be looking for an employee. Coffee available @bamfieldcoffeecompany. Going public, Dane?. L. Druehl

See you soon, Joyalea Carson-Austin

Swim for a Cause. On June 21st, National Indigenous Peoples Day, Daniel Zayonc, Shannon Mendt, Kelly Clement, Hannah Plater, and Justin Demoskof swam a very meandering 3.8 km. across Trevor Channel, from Dodger Channel to Brady's Beach. The swimmers collected donations for KUU-US Crisis Line Society, which serves BC Indigenous communities.

Safety vessels were crewed by Dane Dentoom, Olivia Walker, Renée Gaudet, Jared Higgins, Stella Wenstob, Stella Peters, and Dwayne Hartwell. Out in the middle of Trevor Channel, the waves were rolling us gently towards Brady's and we made great progress early on (despite a few gillnetter boats passing through). Closer to the Brady's shore, we got slowed in some less favorable currents around the Blowhole. That part really blew. No sign of Neptune, just some harmless sea jellies and a thick plankton bloom between us and the abyss. "Just keep swimming" is a line from the movie 'Finding Nemo', and each of us repeated it more and more as we slowly tired. Daniel's reasoning was "well, if a deer can do this swim, then so can I". All swimmers completed the journey in just over two hours. Donations can be made at <https://www.kuu-uscrisisline.com/> Kelly Clement. Photo by Renee Gaudat
